Fun and exciting. Good item.. Part 2 is definitely worth picking up as a continuation of part 1.

Part 2 sees a shift in tone towards more serious events, as you'd expect from a story that needs to wrap itself up in six more episodes, but it's all still interspersed with the series' trademark humour. Better still, despite the shift in tone, it manages to find the right balance between more heartfelt, serious moments and the odd shot of (relevant) humour, switching between both with near-perfect timing.

Overall, Chiru Chiru Michiru is also a great spin on the magical girl genre. You can certainly feel the energy and enthusiasm that went into making this spinoff work on the many levels it's based on. It's set up cleverly too.

Sure, it takes a rather easygoing approach to things by nature, which results in a quickly-shifting narrative where anything can happen. But despite this it ties itself together rather well, especially in its conclusion, and most importantly, remains hugely entertaining and endearing throughout.. Amazing action packed game that really played with my emotions. From the exciting recycling mission to the race car investments. Must Play!

Putt-Putt Enters the Race doesn't fail as a game and is one of better games ever created. Though the challenges seem a slight difficult than other "♥♥♥♥♥♥ junior adventure" games, the lack of places to visit is certainly a big downfall. On the other hand, the various challenges and ways to play the game makes up for the downfall and making this game, a amazing game to play.. I made a rather lackluster review of this game when I was 15, and I think I can probably give you a better understanding of this game.

Essentially, Lugaru HD is an incredibly unique game in which the game play is a 3d world involving you to platform, sneak, and attack wolves and enemy rabbits. However, unfortunately, a lot of the sneaking and platforming aren't really well explored as its successor Overgrowth.

The story is also not the best, and is really improved on in Overgrowth, that being said I think that in a way, that's kind of its charm. Lugaru HD is fun because its buggyness, and learning the nuances that come with it. Not to mention there are some really great mods for this game that I encourage you to check out. :). not recommended in Asia Server. There are a few good mapping engines out there for the harried GMs among us. I've tinkered with Autorealm and Campaign Mapper, but they weren't as friendly, powerful, or (let's face it) pretty as this one. I haven't delved in too terribly deeply to really flex the muscles of the software, but in the short time that I've been idly clicking about, I've made six or seven decent dungeon complexes with light effects, differing elevations, and dungeonesque bric-a-brac. It's going to come in really handy for Roll20...just saying...

This is a very simple game, but it uses a mechanic that would be impossible without motion controls. (I have played a few 2D games with somewhat similar ideas, but it really is a different and fresh experience in VR where you are part of the world and have to aim and dodge.)

If you get this without expecting it to be more than it is I can almost guarantee that you will enjoy the time you spend with it. While I'm playing I can't stop smiling, and to me it has definitely been worth the small purchase price.. Standard riddle-book riddles but presented in a very polished and entertaining way. Voicework is also really well done.. Decent audio and graphics, too bad the enemies are completely dumb and braindead (even for being zombies).. One of my all time favorite games. Geneforge looks fairly simple but it has a very in depth story behind it and following it from the 1st to last game is fun although not necessary.

You are able to choose your quests and actions and whether you want to be good or evil. It's definitely a classic game that should be on everyones list.. I find difficult for it to be a perk, its more better either in gun loadout or a startagem call eitherway, the guns itself are fun to use, but not being a perk. I love it!

Just get it, play it!. point and click.great game adventure. i love this game, its great to just plug into for 5 minutes or hours. and for 50 cents (when i bought it) you just cant beat it
