When the sudden demise of her husband causes a rift in her family, Priya, her younger sister, decides to take the law into her own hands. A mistake on her part, however, will end up putting all of their lives in jeopardy. Murder (2004) is an Indian Hindi comedy action thriller film directed by Ramesh Talwar and produced by Yash Chopra. It stars Anil Kapoor, Farah Khan and Arshad Warsi. The film was released in 2004. The film marks the debut of Farah Khan. The film is an adaptation of the French film L'invitation à danser, with changes to the story and characters.[1] It is also the second of three collaborations between Chopra and Farah Khan. The film has been remade in Tamil and in Telugu under the same title. The film received the National Film Award for Best Feature Film. Plot A few days before her wedding, Priya Singh (Farah Khan) receives a letter written in blood that reads: "She is the bride. The groom is the person whose life she will take. But the two of you will be safe, because you'll both be dead before she kills you." Priya decides to investigate. She first visits her sister-in-law, Savita (Beena Banerjee), who is having an affair with her husband, Jagat (Arshad Warsi). She questions Savita about a mysterious voice she's heard on her phone. Savita is unable to provide any solid information, so Priya decides to visit her father, who is a jail warden. It is then revealed that her father is the one who had called her, but he couldn't reach her in time due to bad reception. He tells her that a man had called him and asked for a girl who would be easy to kill. "She is the bride. The groom is the person whose life she will take." Priya visits her old friend, Jaya (Kavita) and their parents. She asks Jaya whether she has ever thought of being a mother. Jaya replies that she has. She then tells Priya that she would visit her on Saturday to ask for permission to take care of her child. Priya is a little suspicious of her future 82157476af
